

The post office is still the same but has been updated a little (I love the street light from the past)

The mural is still there (the trapezoid shape is because my arms are not long enough to get directly in front of the mural)

The boxes now have key locks instead of the combination locks